

Rotation Model Sunday School

The concept, development, and promotion of rotation model Sunday school originated with Neil McQueen, founder of Sunday Software, and others. The original term for this approach, Workshop Rotation Model[®], is copyrighted. You can discover the history and a wealth of information to support the model at rotation.org. Select “What is the Workshop Rotation Model?” for a printable article from Neil McQueen.

Thanks to the pioneer efforts of McQueen, many churches today use a rotation model Sunday school ministry with children. There are a variety of resources and tools to support this Sunday school model.

The rotation.org Web site offers “Lesson Exchange” for visitors and members to post and download free story sessions. Stories and materials found at the site vary in quality and content. The site also has a volunteer writing team who write and post free rotation model sessions that are professionally edited. You can view the latest posting and all the story sets that are available at rotation.org. Find links to a variety of other resources and rotation friendly publishers at rotation.org/links.htm.

The Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.), through Congregational Ministries Publishing, publishes We Believe Workshop to provide reasonably priced, age-appropriate, Presbyterian and Reformed faith materials for PC(USA) congregations. Visit pcusa.org/webelieve/workshop for a list of the story units and workshops.

Review rotation model resources at these Web sites:

<http://www.pcusa.org/webelieve/workshop>

<http://www.powerxpress.com/>

<http://www.cstones.com/>

<http://www.activatefaith.org/>

<http://www.rotation.org/>

<http://www.augsburgfortress.org/learning/sundayschool/firelight/>