Faith Questions Library

Overview:

- Faith Questions short-term, topical studies for youth are based on questions collected from young people throughout the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.).
- Faith Questions are available in four- or six-session mini-courses intended for older youth. Each topic is adaptable for broadly graded youth programs.
- The curriculum includes an intentional emphasis on spiritual development, recreation, spiritual arts, mission, peacemaking, and justice, as well as connections to movies, music, technology, and other media.

Each session of the curriculum includes:

- Multiple options for learning activities based on multiple intelligence theory.
- Significant background information for leaders, including a spiritual reflection for the leader.
- An overview chart to help the leader organize the session
- Resource pages.
- Session enhancements that include ideas and resources for connecting with families of youth, the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.), mission, justice, worship, and more!

Faith Questions

- Each mini-course consists of four or six sessions. Two new mini-courses are usually introduced each quarter for fall, winter, and spring.
- Each mini-course is printed in a 6" x 9" book. The Web resources for each mini-course are found at gamc.pcusa.org/ministries/curriculum/faith-questions-web-resources-downloads.
- Scripture and our faith traditions (including the Book of Order and The Book of Confessions) are used to respond to questions collected from young people throughout the Presbyterian Church (U.S.A.).
- Each session includes a Coffeehouse Version, which is a one-page, condensed version of the session ideal for use at a simple setting such as a coffeehouse.
